

HSBA Hamburg School of Business Administration is the university of the Hamburg business community. Founded by Hamburg Chamber of Commerce in 2004, it currently cooperates with more than 250 companies and 25 national and international universities in the areas of student exchange programmes, practical research and cooperative doctoral programmes. As a state-recognized university, it offers bachelor's and master's degrees in business as dual and part-time courses for over 900 students. HSBA is well-known for its high-quality applied study programmes, the high employability of its graduates, excellent study conditions and the promotion of the values of the honourable merchant.

As a growing university, HSBA will be starting the interdisciplinary Master Programme (M.Sc) "Real Estate and Leadership", that will qualify HSBA students as "Real Estate Generalists". They will understand and take command of Real Estate as a whole, including not only the development of technical-economical, functional-social and economical-legal perspectives, but also of communication-, management and leadership skills. Students will quickly be enabled to take on complex, holistic tasks regarding coordination, expertise and leadership in different fields of the real estate business and real estate research. Further, a research platform for interdisciplinary real estate will be created.

Therefore, we want to fill the following position by October 2017 at latest, whose workload will be split into 50% research and 50% teaching.

Endowed Chair for Real Estate Development & Communications

This Chair shall take responsibility for the topics: Project Management, Real Estate Project Development, Real Estate Markets, Planning & Design, Stakeholder Management & Communication, among others.

We expect interdisciplinary qualifications as well as integral, systematic and strategic thinking and excellent communication skills (German and English). Proficient research skills must be substantiated in form of a qualified relevant PhD thesis as well as (international) scientific publications. We also expect pedagogical qualifications for lecturing at a university, lecturing experience, ideally in the fields of the Chair, the willingness to teach general business lectures (including also lectures on business fundamentals in Bachelor's and Master's programmes, in English) as well as a high identification with the mission of HSBA and the supporting REaL Foundation.

The salary is in accordance with university average and may allow for a part-time position, to be combined with other self-employed activities. We require at least five years relevant work- and management experience, of which at least three years must be outside the university field. We also request a broad business network within the real estate sector, the international scientific community and the ability and willingness to raise funds. According to HSBA's equal opportunities politics, in case of equal qualifications female applicants will be favored. Due to its endowment background, the Chair is initially limited to a period of 5 years.

If you need more information, please contact our Director of Studies, Dr. Immo Schmidt-Jortzig, on +49 40 36138-718 (immo.schmidt-jortzig@hsba.de). The application deadline is 10 May 2017, please send your application to personal@hsba.de or by mail to HSBA.